Vox Telecom today announced the launch of Voxair, a high-quality teleconferencing solution for both multi-branched businesses and out-of-office users.

Voxair is an easy-to-use secure teleconferencing solution, which offers separate billing for each participant, as well as the option for participants to make use of their free minutes. On top of that it's free to existing customers when calling from the Vox network.

To get started, simply dial 01 0001 0001 from any telephone line (fixed or mobile) in South Africa, enter a four-digit conference call ID and PIN and join the conference. No reservations or contracts are required and no limit to the number of participants or duration of call.

With the high costs of air travel, both from a financial and time investment point of view, Voxair offers an affordable timesaving alternative, as well as increasing business productivity.

Dial 01 0001 0001 and enjoy the benefits of a hassle-free and cost-effective way to connect with friends and colleagues.
